SUBJECT: NAMING PRESERVE PARK SITE

BACKGROUND

The City's park naming guidelines provide several steps during the process. First, a list of potential park names is compiled from suggestions submitted by the public, City staff, and the developer. The suggestions are then forwarded to the Community Services, Parks & Recreation Commission for review. The Commission has the option to review the names as an entire body or through a Sub-Committee prior to making a final recommendation to the full Commission. The Commission's final recommendation is then forwarded to the City Council for final adoption. The park naming guidelines allow a park or facility to be named after an individual, living or deceased, who has provided a significant contribution to the development or improvement of the quality of life in the City (i.e. Ruben S. Ayala Park, Fred Aguiar Square, Carolyn Owens Centennial Square). Further, the park sites can be based on themes that characterize the individual park sites, such as neighborhood street names or significant site landmarks (i.e. Liberty Park, Walnut Park, Mountain View Park).

The development of The Preserve area includes the construction of a park required by the development agreement with Lewis Operating Company (LOC). As conditioned by the Preserve Development Agreement, the developer is required to design and construct a park in lieu of paying development impact fees for these facilities.

Unlike other City park development projects, the park sites in The Preserve are designed and constructed prior to residents moving into the neighborhoods adjoining the proposed park sites. In those cases, the parks are being constructed prior to or during construction of the adjacent tracts in order to have the parks completed when the model homes open to the public. As part of the design process, the developer selects park names that coincide with the housing tract development as part of their desire to develop inclusive communities.

ISSUES/ANALYSIS

Lewis Operating Company (LOC) is currently developing a three-acre public park within The Preserve community. The project site is located south of Pine Avenue, west of W. Preserve Loop, and north of Legacy Park Street.

The park design emphasizes balance, connection, and a strong sense of place through a variety of active and passive recreational amenities. Key features of the park include a walking loop lined with Cherry trees, a traditional Chinese garden, a chess and board game area, fitness equipment, dog park, and tot lot for young children. This park is part of a new development called Block 1 at The Preserve, and at this time, there is no estimated start date for construction or an anticipated opening date for the park. The timing of the construction of the park will be largely driven by the pace of sales within the community. As development progresses and additional information becomes available, staff will share updates regarding the project schedule.

The name proposed by LOC for this park is Harmony Park. This name reflects the park's design and purpose, where a strolling loop lined with Cherry trees encourages peaceful movement and reflection, and the semi-enclosed Chinese garden, arbor, fitness nodes, and gathering spaces foster interaction and community engagement. At the same time, amenities such as the dog park, tot lot, and open spaces ensure the park serves a wide range of users, seamlessly blending active and passive recreation.

As of June 17, 2026, the City received a total of 17 Naming of Facilities and Parks Nomination Forms from community members. Please see the attached Nomination Forms.

The names being proposed are:

- Abacherli Park
- Allen P. McCombs Heritage Park
- Cadet Commons Park
- Cultivate Chino Park or Cultivate Park or Preserve Origins Park or The Origins at The Preserve
- Dairy Pioneers Park
- Dennis R. Yates Park
- Dutchmen Park
- Eunice Ulloa Community Park
- Great Thinkers Park

- Heritage Grove/Blossom Park
- Floral Park or Fluorescent Park or Pollen Park
- Harmony Park
- Pine Grove Park
- Preserve Harmony Park
- Revelations Park
- Russell M. Miller Sr. Memorial Park
- The Heart of Cherry Blossoms Park

RECOMMENDATION

The Commission has the option to review the proposed park names as an entire body or refer the nominations to the Park Naming Sub-Committee for further evaluation. The review will ensure that the proposed names align with the City's Park Naming Guidelines. The Sub-Committee would return with a recommendation to the full Commission at its July 27, 2026 meeting, and at that time will make a final recommendation to the City Council.

(Across from the Prado Dam)
The home which is still occupied and property maintained by Judy Abacherli .

Family careers consisted of dairymen , ranchers , farmers and oilmen. Abacherli Women ,stood beside them as wives , mothers, teachers, and healthcare professionals.
With pride , their memories remain as example of hardworking and loyal members of The Chino Community .

Children of the Abacherli's grew up with Chino as a dairy and farm land . Working on the ranch , participating in school ,
4-H and other community activities. Many remaining and making Chino their home .

The Abacherli Family helped with building the physical foundations of Chino. A family that has remained part of the community for generations.

Chino's identity is inseparable from the sky above it. In 1940, the Cal-Aero Academy opened at what is now Chino Airport as the first civilian aviation school in the United States ... and quickly became the model for 62 other flight schools built across the country. When World War II arrived, the Army Air Force leased the facility and transformed it into one of the most productive military pilot training installations in the nation. Over the course of the war, more than 12,000 cadets learned to fly here, graduating every six weeks and deploying directly into combat theaters across the Pacific and Europe. They flew Stearmans, BT-13s, and T-6s over the skies of Chino before carrying American freedom into the most consequential conflict of the 20th century.

A commons, in the American tradition, is a shared space where community gathers ... rooted in the colonial era town greens that predate the founding of the nation itself. In 2026, as the United States celebrates 250 years of independence, naming this park Cadet Commons draws a direct line from those founding ideals to the generation that defended them over Chino's airfields. The name honors every cadet who soloed here, graduated here, and went on to serve. It belongs to the community as much as it belonged to them.

Cadet Commons is not a memorial. It is a living tribute ... a place where Chino residents gather, play, and breathe the same air those cadets once flew through.

The Dutch Dairyman migrated into the Chino Valley from the early 1950's to the late 1970's. The purpose of their migation was to provide fresh clean milk to the greater Los Angeles area. I believe it is important to remember the hard work and dediction our forefathers have put into the beautiful Chino Vally that it is today. For this reason I feel the new park should be named Duthmen Park.

LEWIS
GROUP OF COMPANIES

April 10, 2026

Re: Park Naming Request- Harmony Park

On behalf of Chino Preserve Development Corporation "CPDC", a member of the Lewis Group of Companies and the master developer of The Preserve, we are pleased to formally submit this request for the naming of a new neighborhood park as Harmony Park. The proposed 3-acre park is located within The Preserve, situated south of Pine Avenue, west of W. Preserve Loop, and north of Legacy Park Street. As the master developer, CPDC is committed to delivering thoughtfully designed amenities that enhance the quality of life for residents and contribute to a strong sense of community identity. In alignment with this vision, we respectfully propose the name Harmony Park, which reflects both the design intent of the park and the values of connection, balance, and inclusivity that define The Preserve.

The name Harmony Park is a meaningful and fitting reflection of both the park's physical design and the broader values it represents within the community. The concept plan illustrates a space intentionally designed to bring people together across all ages, cultures, and interests, creating a setting that promotes balance, connection, and a shared sense of place. Key elements of the park reinforce this theme of harmony. The strolling loop lined with cherry trees encourages peaceful movement and reflection, while the semi-enclosed Chinese garden introduces cultural appreciation, tranquility, and balance. Social features such as the chess and board game area under the arbor, fitness nodes, and gathering spaces foster interaction and community engagement. At the same time, amenities such as the dog park, tot lot, and open areas ensure the park serves a wide range of users, seamlessly blending active and passive recreation.

Beyond its physical attributes, the name Harmony Park also reflects enduring ideals that are deeply rooted in the identity of the United States. Throughout the nation's history, defining moments have centered on the pursuit of unity, inclusion, and coexistence. Public spaces like parks have long served as places where these values are experienced in everyday life. In more recent years, particularly following the shared challenges of the COVID-19 pandemic, parks have taken on an even greater role in supporting mental well-being, outdoor activity, and community connection. Spaces like this are no longer just amenities, but essential components of healthy, resilient communities.

Harmony Park embodies these national and local values alike. It represents a place where diversity is welcomed, balance is achieved, and community is strengthened. The name is timeless, positive, and reflective of the park's purpose of enhancing quality of life while fostering a sense of unity and belonging for current and future residents of Chino.

For these reasons, Harmony Park is an appropriate and compelling name that fully captures the vision, character, and long-term significance of this community space.

Sincerely,

Chino Preserve Development Corporation

I don't think it should be named after an individual or organization since reputations over time change. Revelations is an an unveiling or uncovering. Hidden but now an astoshing newfound realization.

Russ Miller dedicated his life to serving others. He proudly served his country for six years in the United States Navy during the Vietnam War. He later answered the call to serve the Chino community, joining the Chino Police Department on February 5, 1988, and faithfully serving the residents of Chino for more than 12 years.

Beyond his public service, Russ was deeply involved in youth sports and was a strong advocate for children and families. He coached Little League baseball and dedicated his time to mentoring young people through sports and other community activities. Those who knew him remember him as a man with a big heart who cared deeply about children, families, and serving others. Through his commitment to teamwork, sportsmanship, and serving as a positive role model, he helped improve the quality of life for countless young people and families. More than 26 years after his death, his impact continues to be remembered through the annual Run for Russ event, which honors his life, service, and sacrifice.

On February 1, 2000, Officer Miller was killed in the line of duty while protecting the community he loved. The proposed park's focus on recreation, wellness, family activities, walking paths, gardens, games, and gathering spaces reflects the very values Russ championed throughout his life.

Naming this park Russell M. Miller Sr. Memorial Park would recognize his military service, dedication to the City of Chino, ultimate sacrifice, and lasting legacy as a public servant, youth mentor, veteran, and community champion.
